To begin with, schools are the places that cultivate many talented people who could contribute a lot to a country. Harvard University, for example, cultivates numbers of talented people in different fields such as biology, engineering, literature and politics; these people work in different positions and bring huge development to the whole society. Thus, a large number of talents appear only when enough powerful schools get support from government.

To begin with, schools are the places that cultivate many talented people who could contribute a lot to a country. Harvard University, for example, has built up 8 presidents including FDR and JFK, who saved the country in decisive time, and more than 30 Nobel Prize winners, who pushed up the advanced technology of U.S. All those people came from the first-rate school, thus making building school become a wiser choice of governments.

Compared with the developed countries, our country has a long way to run.

First and foremost, convenient traffic, which cannot be offered by the countryside, may provide more timely help. As the adage goes, "accompaniment is the finest present for families." High-speed public transit and basic infrastructure allow employees to spend less time on the road and more time with their families, allowing them to spend more time with their families and less time dealing with accidents. Since their construction, subways and buses, which are widespread in cities, have been popular alternatives for commuters. When compared to subways or cabs, they will waste twice as much time on the same route if they walk or ride bicycles, which are the only means to go around in the countryside. People might use the time they have saved to spend with their children or parents. a more prompt treatment

段首句

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

When teachers assign projects on which students must work together, the students learn much more effectively than when they are asked to work alone on projects.

assignment >= homework

homework可以有准备工作的意思,不一定是完全课后

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

When teachers assign projects on which students must work together, the students learn much more effectively than when they are asked to work alone on projects.

立场：应该独自学习而不是团队学习。

理由1：独自学习可以避免不必要的打扰。

理由2：独自学习可以自己经历一个项目的所有过程。
(从调查、设计到演讲全过程)

理由3：独自学习创造了更好的条件去和别人沟通合作。

ETS战略合作伙伴
考试机构代码 C00010100 TOEFL

理由三感觉就很好--> 因为两个部分有联系,就不容易单独写一个

立场句放在首段后

立场：应该独自学习而不是团队学习

Before: I do believe that working alone is a better approach to learning.

After: I do believe that they can be the great beneficiaries if they work alone.

beneficiaries

受益者，不想再用 benefit可以考虑替换

approach

表示达到某一目的的方法，比way地道

理由3：独自学习创造了更好的条件去和别人沟通合作。

Before: Finally, better communication skills, which are often a result of working in a team can also be gained through an independent learning process.

After: Even though better communication skills are often a result of working in a team, it can also be gained through an independent learning process.

even though

类词语although，表达让步关系的强力连词

注意，这种对比的话，even though一定是侧重点在后面而不是前面

起码这些比first second 好

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

Students would receive a better education if they were required to attend classes for 11 months of a year.

立场：上11个月的课学习效果反而不好。

理由1：上课太久学生压力太大，身体容易垮。

理由2：上11个月的课就意味着没有时间去社会实践。

理由3：上11个月的课没有时间复习所学的知识点。 put stress on 给某个对象施加压力

be +of+抽象名词

完美代替be+adj. 的用法。但是注意这里的名词只能是抽象名词。

- Too much time spent in class puts more stress on students.
- They also need to take part in social activities, which is of equal importance to class teaching.
- Students need time to review what they have learned so that they could do better in the exam.

be+of+名词可以在名词之前找到合适的adj

27+

incredible

adj. 程度形容词 难以想象的

even if

和even though一样，但是让步的是还没有发生的事情，通常会和虚拟语气同时出现。

- I think the worst consequence is that they have to endure incredible stress.
- In terms of the principle of education, social practice is another part that is of equal importance to academic learning.
- Even if the idea that the grade dominates everything were right, it is hard for them to gain a good mark without enough time to review what they have learned.

三个主体段落中最能体现的放第一段

确实,这么起的话,第三段就有让步的意思

With the determination to never let up until we reach our goals and the attitude that the last leg of the journey marks the halfway point only, we must make unremitting efforts to advance the rejuvenation of the Chinese nation.

We will always remember the glories and hardships of yesterday, rise to the mission of today, and live up to the great dream of tomorrow. We will learn from history, work hard, forge ahead for a better future, and make tireless efforts to realize the Second Centenary Goal and the Chinese Dream of national rejuvenation.

It was unanimously agreed that the external environment has grown increasingly complex and grave over the past year under the combined impact of worldwide changes of a scale unseen in a century and the global coronavirus pandemic, while China has faced extremely arduous tasks in COVID-19 prevention and control as well as economic and social development at home.

The Political Bureau has given full consideration to both domestic and international imperatives, coordinated the COVID-19 response with economic and social development, and placed equal emphasis on development and security. It has continued to follow the general principle of pursuing progress while ensuring stability, fully applied the new development philosophy, and accelerated efforts to foster a new pattern of development. The economy has maintained good momentum, positive advances have been made in building up China's scientific and technological self-reliance, and further progress has been achieved in reform and opening up. A complete victory has been secured in the fight against poverty as scheduled, the people's wellbeing has been further improved, social stability has been maintained, steady progress was made in modernizing national defense and the armed forces, and China's major-country diplomacy has advanced on all fronts. The campaign on studying the Party's history has produced solid results, and severe natural disasters of multiple categories have been dealt with effectively. Through these efforts, significant progress has been made in all areas of the Party and country's endeavors.

In my opinion, being polite to others is crucial in communication.

This is primarily because being polite is a suitable and easy way to create the desired impression. Good manners cost nothing, but they can make a big difference to how other people feel about you. Politeness can make a person appear more credible because it takes a certain degree of knowledge and experience to demonstrate politeness.

In addition, being polite can often serve to avoid or minimize conflict. People with gentle manners are always aware of and respect others. Consequently, other people are more likely to be polite and courteous in return.

Finally, politeness ensures mutually satisfying interactions. When people are rude, interactions break down and end with annoyance. Politeness develops more enjoyment and satisfaction. We should always strive to be polite.

Some people like to eat out at food stands and restaurants, while others like to prepare food at home. Often it depends on the kind of lifestyle people have. Those with very busy jobs outside the house don't always have time to cook. They like the convenience of eating out. Overall, though, it is cheaper and healthier to eat at home. While eating in restaurants is fast, the money you spend can add up. When I have dinner at a restaurant with a friend, the bill is usually over twenty dollars. I can buy a lot of groceries with that much money. Even lunch at a fast-food stand usually costs five or six dollars for one person. That's enough to feed the whole family at home. Eating at home is better for you, too. Meals at restaurants are often high in fat and calories, and they serve big plates of food-much more food-than you need to eat at one meal. If you cook food at home, you have more control over the ingredients. You can use margarine instead of butter on your potatoes, or not put so much cheese on top of your pizza. At home, you can control your portion size. You can serve yourself as little as you want. In a restaurant, you may eat a full plate of food "because you paid for it." It's true that eating out is convenient. You don't have to shop, or cook, or clean up. But real home cooking doesn't have to take up a lot of time. There are lots of simple meals that don't take long to make. In fact, they're faster than eating out, especially if you think of the time you spend driving to a restaurant, parking, waiting for a table,, waiting for service, and driving home. Both eating at restaurants and cooking at home can be satisfying. People attend colleges or universities for a lot of different reasons. I believe that the three most common reasons are to prepare for a career, to have new experiences, and to increase their knowledge of themselves and the world around them.

Career preparation is becoming more and more important to young people. For many, this is the primary reason to go to college, They know that the job market is competitive. At college, they can learn new skill for careers with a lot of opportunities. This means careers, such as information technology, that are expected to need a large workforce in the coming years.

Also, students go to colleges and universities to have new experiences. This often means having the opportunity to meet people different from those in their hometowns. For most students,going to college is the first time they've been away from home by themselves. In additions, this is the first time they've had to make decisions on their own. Making these decisions increases their knowledge of themselves.

Besides looking for self-knowledge, people also attend a university or college to expand their knowledge in subjects they find interesting. For many, this will be their last chance for a long time to learn about something that doesn't relate to their career.

I would recommend that people not be so focused on a career. They should go to college to have new experiences and learn about themselves and the world they live in
